

1.Department of Medical Education, Brighton and Sussex Medical School, 344A Mayfield House, University of Brighton, Falmer, Brighton, BN1 9PH

However, access to these is dispersed across different interfaces which can be a barrier to an integrated teaching and learning approach in the dissection lab.

In order to comply with Human Tissue Authority legislation, the lab-dedicated iPads are restricted to display only the gateway interface and 'whitelisted' websites. All sensitive material is housed behind appropriate firewall security. Student feedback was collected via paper polling which in the future will be digital.